Exhibition Overview

The Northern Gateway to Iraq is an attractive logistical hub for international companies

With a young and increasingly prosperous population of nearly 4 million, Kurdistan covers about 40,000 km². It enjoys stable security coupled with an emerging economy. The Region has two new international airports, one in Erbil, the capital of the region, and the other in Sulaimaniya, with over 80 direct flights per week, from Vienna, Frankfurt, Stockholm, Amsterdam, Dubai, Amman, and Istanbul. A liberal investment law, ratified by Kurdistan Regional Government (KRG) offers foreign investors incentives including customs relief, tax holidays and the right to repatriate profits. Kurdistan has a regulated banking & finance sector that provides a variety of banking services. Over the past few years, northern Iraq has offered exciting investment opportunities for international reconstruction players.
